O'REILLY, Michael
LIBERAL

Every aged care resident deserves to enjoy their later years with comfort and dignity.

In homes run by the Victorian Government, strict rules ensure there are enough staff for residents to receive high quality care, and that a nurse is always available if needed.

Unfortunately, the same rules don't apply to privately-run aged care. We constantly see private providers cutting corners, reducing staffing levels and compromising safety in the name of shareholder profit.

It started under Jeff Kennett and would only get worse under Matthew Guy.

Despite all the testimony from the recent royal commission, and the terrible impact of COVID on privately-run homes over the last few years, the Liberal Party has shown time and time again that they're not interested in fixing the problems.

If you value high quality aged care, you can't trust Matthew Guy. Put the Liberal Party last at this state election.
